Brutal Assault on Their Employer by the Men.

A San Jose Contractor Fatally Shot—His Assassin Succeeds.

Representative Bowers Welcomed Home to San Diego—A Bad Fall at San Francisco—Death of a Pioneer Merchant.

By Telegram to the Times.

FRESNO, Aug. 17.—[By the Associated Press.] Forty stonecutters employed in J. G. Day's granite quarry at Raymond went on a strike yesterday. Last April the men informed Day that their union had made a new schedule to go into effect in all quarries in the State. According to the new schedule stonecutters are to work eight hours instead of nine, and receive the same pay. Day agreed to observe the new rule if the other quarries did.

The new rule went into effect May 1. About a month later Day found out that the cutters in the San José and Rocklin quarries were still working nine hours a day at $4. He informed his men that they would either have to have the hours of the cutters in other quarries reduced or they would have to return to the nine-hour rule. He gave them until August 15 to adjust the matter, but nothing was done. Yesterday was the time for the men to go to work under the old rule, but they struck.

Last night several of the strikers came to Day's office and assaulted him. One of the men picked up a coal oil lamp and struck him on the head, badly cutting him with the broken glass. Other wounds on the head were also inflicted by the assailants. The men were under the influence of liquor. Day will put in new men.

SAN DIEGO'S CELEBRATION.

Arrangements for the Due Observance of Discovery Day.

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 17.—[By the Associated Press.] The committee in whose hands arrangements for the celebration of the three hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the discovery of San Diego Bay have been left today received a telegram from Gov. Markham, in which he accepts the invitation extended to him to preside on that occasion. The suggestion that Admiral Gherardi be invited to participate in the celebration will be acted upon.

The Admiral is about to proceed to San Francisco to assume command of the squadron, composed of the Baltimore, Charleston, San Francisco, Yorktown and Boston, which will participate in the great naval review in Hampton Roads next April. Gherardi is to make the Baltimore his flagship and proceed to the Atlantic Coast, stopping at South American ports and arriving in Newport, New York, in March.

It is thought it will be possible to induce him to so arrange his departure from San Francisco that his entire squadron may be present on September 25 to participate in the celebration of Discovery day. The entire programme, covering three days, will soon be made public.

THE RAIN-GROWERS!

A Red-hot Time at Their Convention at Fresno.

FRESNO, Aug. 17.—[By the Associated Press.] The thermometer on the street registered 111° today, but it was much hotter at the convention of the State Rain-growers Association, which met for the purpose of completing the combination of growers and packers, the object of which is to secure 4½ cents per pound on raisins as the minimum price. Among the few packers who have refused to sign the compact are Cook & Langley, Williams, Brown & Co., and Schacht, Lemcke & Steiner. The two latter firms had representatives at the convention who stated the emphatic refusal of their companies to join the combination.

The convention passed resolutions providing that no raisins should be sold to those firms. The discussion was very warm. The growers claim to have 95 per cent. of the raisin-growers in the association.

AMUSEMENTS TONIGHT.

AT THE OPERAHOUSE—Carmen.

WHERE IS THE GRAY AT!

We are willing to concede that Grover will carry England.

Yes, this is "hot enough" for us and you needn't ask the question again, either.

It may not be improper to remark that Chris Evans and that other Sontag boy are still missing.

The road from Buzzard's Bay to the White House has lots of rocks in it, and Grover so heavy, too!

CLEVELAND can console himself with the assurance that nobody will ever call him militum in porro.

ALTHOUGH the weather is too hot for labor the McKinley Bill goes right along doing its work with neatness and dispatch.

SOME of the pictures of candidates for President that are printed in the papers are enough to make a voter forswear the right of suffrage and take to the woods.

SHALL it be called "the corner," "the cornered," or "the cornered Congress"—(Iowa State Register).

We rather lean toward calling it the great uncornered.

THE Chicago Tribune is wasting space in printing editorials on "The Crude Theories of a Free Trader," for that wobbly individual hasn't any other kind and everybody knows it.

A FLORIDA party finds fault because Whitelaw Reid wears celluloid collars and cuffs. As it is not fashionable in the land of alligators to wear even a shirt, it is no wonder they think Mr. Reid is a dude.

THOSE two brethren in the Democratic camp, Frank Moffitt, of the Oakland Times, and William S. Green, of the Colusa Sun, are lambasting each other in a most distressing fashion, considering the place where the mercury stands.

THE county convention will soon be on the tapis, and we may be excused for suggesting that reputable citizens be made judges and inspectors at the coming primary election, more for the sake of contrast with the last primaries, of course, than because it is the proper thing to do. The picture of a lot of hobos and shoulder-hitters officiating as election officials is not one to win the voter just at this time, and some concessions to placate that individual might be a wise thing to think about. This suggestion is simply thrown out as a suggestion, and here you have it.

THE law which requires the assessment of growing trees in orchard before they come into bearing should be amended by the next Legislature. The fruit farmer who commences on small capital has a hard enough struggle to keep the wolf from the door without the tax-gatherer jumping upon him and helping to pull him down. Tax the bearing trees as improvements; that is all right; but the poor little trees that are doing nobody any harm or good, but hoping to benefit somebody some time if they are allowed to grow, should go free. The great State of California can afford to go a little out of her way to encourage tree-planting.

THIS is the sort of weather that makes the negligee shirt the most popular article of raiment in the shop; and the tail collar is relegated to the quiet yaller shoe scuffs the walks and the girl's suspenders seem to be about the correct thing; when the straw hat has a place in the economy of nature that would be mighty hard to fill, even with a nicker-plated helmet with "an eagle" onto it such as "sogers" wear; when the long cool drink trails its moist pathway across the bar and the ice clink in the pitcher with a sound as pleasing as the chirp of a hundred seraphs with lyres; when the wet sea that has waves into it woos the citizen, male and otherwise, to revel in its damp embrace and monkey with its snowy fringe along the beaches; when the peach, seductively drowned in cream, takes the place of the delusive pancake and the red-hot tomato of commerce; when the whole business of life is properly to get away to some distant spot where the newspaper does not leak its way into the calm, and the man with the little bill can't come shoving the thing at you. That's the kind of weather this is.

under such favorable conditions to labor that it never has been reduced to the plane of crowded and oppressed foreign countries. And we desire that it never shall be reduced to that plane. We have, so to speak, a private preserve for poor men in this quarter of the globe. It is a good thing. We wish to keep it for Americans and those who become Americans under our laws. We thus hedge it about with safeguards. One of these safeguards is a protective tariff. Another is the exclusion of alien labor under contract. Another is the law for Chinese exclusion. As time goes on and the desirability of our preserve becomes more manifest to the whole world, we shall have to hedge it about with still more safeguards, if we would not have it overrun by the hungry hordes of Europe and Asia and its superior advantages thus obliterated.

To ask why the adoption of one of our safeguards—the protective tariff—by France, Germany and Italy does not produce the same advantages for labor in those countries that we find in the United States is to ignore all of the other conditions which enter into determining the status of labor. Neither France, Germany nor Italy being the present area with a broad, sparsely-populated country, full of undeveloped resources such as we find in the United States. Not one of these countries is isolated from its overcrowded neighbors. Every one of them began with its laborers reduced to the lowest plane of civilized existence. Every one of them is dominated by laws and social customs which keep the laborer down to struggle for the bare necessities of life. Neither France, Germany nor Italy had such a preserve as ours to fence in; and if they have built fences they have simply inclosed what they had to start with.

Nevertheless, we believe that the improvement of any one of the conditions which affect the status of labor is beneficial. We believe that France, Germany and Italy, with protective tariffs are helping to improve the lot of their working people. The protective tariff cannot accomplish everything, but it can help along with the good work.

We trust that we have made our argument clear to Mr. Davis and to other people who have staggering questions to propose. Recurring to our first simile, we may say that the tariff is only like a dose of peepsin—an aid to digestion. It is not a complete digestive apparatus in itself, nor is it a complete food, but taken in connection with these accessories, it is an excellent assistant in a very important function. It helps to maintain the price of labor; it helps to keep the whole country prosperous; it helps to preserve for us the superior advantages with which we started.

To Southern California Exhibitors. The forthcoming historical exhibit at Sacramento (opening with the State Fair, September 5), will have as one of its important and interesting features a section devoted to the press. This branch of the exhibit appropriate contributions are requested from the publishers of the State. Files of papers, important special issues, and other interesting records and objects illustrating the early beginning and the striking progress of journalism in California, and at the same time illustrating the growth, development and history of the State, are requested and will be highly appreciated by the committee. All articles loaned for this purpose will be transported to Sacramento and return free of charge to the owners, and their safety guaranteed. Publishers are invited to interest themselves in this unique exhibit, and to give up their treasures for a little time for the education of the many. Communicate direct with Secretary Woodson, office of the Sacramento Record-Union, or with this office.

What printer or publisher has a very, very old and historic printing-press that he will add to the general collection?

A Bright Idea from a Novel.

In these days of pseudo-scientific novels it sometimes happens that a bright writer broaches an idea which is new to the scientific world and of real practical value. It was the younger Herschel, we think, who said that a good imagination is one of the most valuable qualities of an astronomer. If he attempts to work in new fields he must first imagine his hypothesis and perhaps many of its details, and then follow it with investigation to find out whether he is correct or not. In recent novel, entitled "Answered in the Negative," the writer advances the idea of a microscopic analysis of photographs of celestial bodies to reveal an accurate knowledge of their physical characteristics. The idea is that many details too fine for the human eye to comprehend are enlarged in the picture, and if these details are only sufficiently enlarged they may be read like an open book. Something analogous to this method of research has recently been accomplished abroad. A lunar photograph taken by Prof. Holden at the Lick Observatory has just been enlarged by Dr. Wrenck, of the Prague Observatory, to the size of twenty times the original. It shows the surface fully nine feet in diameter, the most remarkable feature about it being the river-like lines in it. These lines are many and vary in appearance, but what they really represent, it would be hard to determine. Perhaps another enlargement to twenty times the present size of the picture would show. The possibilities involved in this sort of investigation are great.

"In 1870 manufacturing enterprises in Georgia were valued at $2,000,000; in 1891 manufacturing enterprises in Georgia were valued at $10,000,000." They have trebled and more. And yet in the face of that exhibit, which the chairman of the Georgia Democratic State Convention made yesterday, workmen are asked to support a party pledged to reverse the economic policy of the Government which has produced these splendid results.

THE Texans are having a happy, double-headed time in their State convention, the question being Hogg and anti-Hogg. This, however, has no relation to the great trouble we had with the effete monarchies of the old world over the question of the great American hog with one o. The Texas animal seems, though, to be mighty, brachy, and perhaps he may embroil us all in turmoil before he is corralled. . . . S'ibboy thar!

CHICAGO didn't get that $5,000,000 appropriated, but they are going to sell those Columbian four-bit pieces for $1 each and thus circumvent Holman and the rest of the penurious Congressmen. Trust Chicago not to let anything get away from it very far.

The bald-headed abolishing spring in San Diego county could probably secure a profitable engagement by opening communication with Private Iams and Bill Nye.

The water-front question has broken out in the Oakland papers, double headed, full of exclamation points and cardinal red with agony.

AMUSEMENTS.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

GRAND OPERAHOUSE.—The production of Bohemia by the Spanish Opera Company last evening carried the thought of the mature opera-goers back to the days of '80 when Bohemia was all the rage and was rendered by Emilio Melville at the Bush Street Theatre in San Francisco under the management of Charles Locke.

There was a gala night, and a large sprinkling of the Spanish population were present. The leading parts were acceptedly filled and anything that was lacking in the voices of the chief performers was compensated by the chorus, which, especially the male portion, was active and vigorous. The cause of protection is undoubtedly stronger today in Nebraska for it—(Cleveland Leader).

THE man who has faith in the ability of the Democratic-Cleveland party to reform anything or improve anything after studying the record of the present House of Representatives, must be a callous, hide-bound creature.—(New York Tribune).

SENATOR Hill did not go to Gray Gabies, after all. Perhaps he intends to postpone his ratification meeting until after the election. It was bad enough to ask him to take his dish of fish without adding the Harry-Dickinson dressing.—(Boston Record).

ADAL E. STEVENSON's emphatic denial of affiliation with disloyal secret organizations during the war was more general respect were it not that he denied with equal emphasis that he had ever been a Greenbacker, though he was on record as making Greenback speeches and receiving Greenback nominations, and casting Greenback votes.

Our Democratic contemporaries are exulting over the failure of small tin plate factory out in Indiana with an exuberance which shows how entirely hostile their policy is to the development of American industry. They do not express any satisfaction over the output of the output of American tin plate doubling or trebling every three months.—(Boston Journal).

"Patriotism knows no sex," says Mrs. J. Ellen Foster. Of course it does, the ladies were allowed to vote Harrison would carry every Northern State by overwhelming majority. The Democrats fooled the women two years ago when they would have to pay in the future under the McKinley law, but they cannot be fooled about what they have been and are paying for American made goods.—(Chicago Tribune).

THE sun says that William C. Whitney is the fool-killer for the Cleveland-Democratic combination. His business is to close the money market, and he is doing it wrong key, and destroy the fool friends of the Sage of Buzard's Bay. He ought to run up to Gray Gabies and suppress the money market, and he ought to be paid for the Sage's retreat. No fool-killer was ever so widely called for.—(New York Advertiser).

DURING the last session of Congress favorable reports were made on $70,000,000 of Confederate war claims. This is only a beginning which will be swelled in ten times that amount as soon as the South has control of the departments of the Government. The South naturally wants the claims paid, and the North, which was compelled to bear the burden of the war for the Union, does not want to pay them. Instead of paying the South for damages of a war which they brought about, it would be more just to make the South pay the claims of the Union.—(Iowa State Register).

ALMOST DIED OF THIRST. An Exploring Party's Experience in the Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

W. C. Burns, Ph.D., of Detroit, Mich., is in the city visiting his old college friend, S. G. Millard. Mr. Burns is the gentleman, who, with Dr. Dunlap of Battle Creek, Mich., and Prof. James Fellow, of the Royal Historical Society, London, rescued a very near losing his life while exploring in the Grand Cañon of the Colorado, an account of which was published in the Associated Press dispatches yesterday.

Mr. Burns gave an account of his experiences on the trip. As stated in the dispatches the party while exploring a side cañon, allowed their enthusiasm to get the better of their judgment, and took a trip which consumed four days. They were expecting to make the journey in one day they ran out of water and provisions and but for the discovery of a "pocket" in the rocks filled with water the whole party would have perished. The party were down about 6500 feet and the heat was stifling, the thermometer registering 110° in the shade.

The party were compelled to lie under rocks and wait until night, when Mr. Burns and Prof. Fellow gave out entirely, when within five miles of Mystic Spring, and would have died had not Dr. Dunlap been able to get to the spring and return with water.

Mr. Burns leaves for San Francisco, where he will spend some days and will also visit the Pueblo Indians, after which he will return East.

Artistic World's Fair Invitations. Invitations have been issued for the ceremonies attending the dedication of the buildings of the World's Columbian Exposition at Jackson Park, Chicago on October 11, 12, 13.

The revision of the calendar, however, makes the date of opening October 21, corresponding with October 12, 1492.

A Sixty-mile Wagon Trip. Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Thorburn, Mr. and Mrs. G. Ferguson and daughter, Mrs. Therman and son of Boyle Heights have returned from a three weeks' outing in the region of Lytle Creek, San Antonio Cañon, having made the sixty-mile trip by wagon. They report having found few trout, less game, fine sulphur springs, hot desert winds, night and day and the peace of camp life very much disturbed by inquisitive hogs, cattle and sheep.

They encountered a thunder-storm on their return trip, and were glad to see Los Angeles again.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES. The "California Cold Process." NEW CONCORD (O.) Aug. 1, 1892.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] We have noticed articles lately in several papers regarding preserving fruit by the California cold process. Some write as though it was a patent and difficult to obtain the right to use, but such is not the case. The material used is the compound extract of salix, which any druggist, if he does not keep it in stock, can easily obtain. It has been used in the household for many years, so that the system is well established. You do not heat or seal the fruit; just put it in the vessels you wish to keep it in, and pour the solution over it and it will keep its natural color and taste for years. You can keep currants on the stem, green on the cob, and fruit of all kinds for any kind in a perfectly natural state. The cost is only about 1 cent per quart, and the labor almost nothing. You can put up a bushel of berries in ten minutes easily. We have put up hundreds of packages of fruit by the California cold process, and we have never had a single complaint. The material is shipped free to all parts of the United States. The salix is made especially for preserving fruit and vegetables, and is used in the compound extract of salix. We have complete directions for using. We have berries, cherries, grapes and pears kept in this way, and they are as good as when they were first picked, and then it is so cheap and so little trouble that any one can derive a great benefit by using the California cold process. We feel that any one trying it will never put up another can of fruit or use any other method. Yours truly, THE CALIFORNIA COLD PROCESS CO.

The "General" Explains It All Away.

(Pittsburgh Dispatch.)

SAY PUBLIC OFFICE SAY PUBLICUS

STEVENS—Read the big letters, boys. The little ones don't count.

Gov. McKinley's speeches are of the kind that make votes.—(Baltimore American).

With Alabama's Democratic Governor elected by colored votes, he should probably have no more of the "odious Force Bill" in that section.

Gov. McKinley has become a benediction. This is to say, he has been lavishing all his known powers of eloquence and persuasion upon Nebraska, Neb.—(Philadelphia Press).

The Democrats carried Iowa on the liquor issues in the last gubernatorial election. But when it comes to national questions, Iowa will vote as they shoot.—(New York Commercial Advertiser).

Gov. McKinley is doing valiant work for the party during his vacation. He talked to 15,000 people at Beatrice, Neb., yesterday, and the cause of protection is undoubtedly stronger today in Nebraska for it—(Cleveland Leader).

LETTERS TO THE TIMES. The "California Cold Process." NEW CONCORD (O.) Aug. 1, 1892.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] We have noticed articles lately in several papers regarding preserving fruit by the California cold process. Some write as though it was a patent and difficult to obtain the right to use, but such is not the case. The material used is the compound extract of salix, which any druggist, if he does not keep it in stock, can easily obtain. It has been used in the household for many years, so that the system is well established. You do not heat or seal the fruit; just put it in the vessels you wish to keep it in, and pour the solution over it and it will keep its natural color and taste for years. You can keep currants on the stem, green on the cob, and fruit of all kinds for any kind in a perfectly natural state. The cost is only about 1 cent per quart, and the labor almost nothing. You can put up a bushel of berries in ten minutes easily. We have put up hundreds of packages of fruit by the California cold process, and we have never had a single complaint. The material is shipped free to all parts of the United States. The salix is made especially for preserving fruit and vegetables, and is used in the compound extract of salix. We have complete directions for using. ## IN SOCIAL SPHERES.

CUPID'S WORK.

Cupid is the baseliest little fellow in town this week. He had to stand sponsor for two weddings yesterday, and the air will be full of the chime of bridal bells for some time to come. It is rumored to be true. August, thus far, eclipses June, conceded to be the month of brides, in the number of weddings.

LUST-GOODWIN.

The most brilliant wedding of the waning season occurred yesterday at high noon at the First Presbyterian Church, when the marriage of Miss Ella S. Goodwin, only daughter of Mrs. A. T. Goodwin of West Second street, and Prof. Howard L. Lunt of this city was solemnized in the presence of a large company of invited guests. Friends of the bride, under the direction of Miss Gertrude Finney, had transformed the chancel into a perfect bower. Ivy twined the pillars and palm leaves frescoed the walls. An immense bank of fern-like peepers sprang from the altar, where the bride stood, to the organ loft beyond, entirely covering the pulpit platform and rising in a screen before the organ, hiding the organist from view. Over this mass of delicate foliage were strewn pink and white flowers, roses and dainty pink crape-myrtle blossoms. The whole effect being charming in the extreme. Singing birds were concealed behind the screen and added their music to the strains of the wedding march which announced the entrance of the bride. The party from the rear of the church. First came the four ushers, Messrs. Newkirk, Goodman, Bailey and Ozman, followed by the bridesmaids and groomsmen in couples, Miss Mary Bliss of Oakland, Miss May Simmons, Miss H. B. Freeman and Messrs. True, Whitaker and Hutchinson, all of this city. Two tiny, fairy-like flower girls, Misses Berenice Bronson and Ariel Ewing, in long, quaint, white gowns, with floating hair and baskets of rose petals on their arms, preceded the bride and groom, who came last. The bride never looked more charming than in her wedding gown of rich dead-white faille silk, cut demi-traine, the bodice decorated with exquisite lace. The bride veil fell in misty folds the length of the train, held in place by a spray of myrtle blossoms in accordance with the sweet old English custom as a token of health and happiness to the bride. She carried in her gloved hands a magnificent fan of white ostrich plumes and wore no jewelry except a pin set with pearls, the gift of the groom.

The bridesmaids wore demi-traine gowns of cream white crepe and silk decorated with lace and ribbons and carried big bunches of Duchess roses. Exquisite pins of frosted silver in the form of love knots, the gift of the groom, were their only ornaments.

Rev. S. H. Weller, D.D., in a few quiet words pronounced the wedding ceremony. As the beautiful words of the Mizpah fell from his lips in the closing prayer, the couple rose from their kneeling position, the organ burst into the glad strains of the wedding march. The bride passed slowly out in reversed order, the little flower girls leading the way and striding the aisle with pink and white rose petals.

Prof. and Mrs. Lunt left on the 9 p.m. train for a wedding tour and will return to the city next month. On the evening of September 15 they, assisted by the bridesmaids and groomsmen, will receive the wedding guests at the former home of the bride, No. 512 West Second street. Prof. and Mrs. Lunt will be at home to their friends on each succeeding Friday afternoon and evening during the month.

The wedding gifts were many and handsome, consisting of silver, rare china, books, exquisite table linen and vertu. The bride's wedding trousseau complete was the gift of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Cartmell of Lebanon, Tenn., who were unable to be present at the marriage on account of the illness of Mr. Cartmell.

The bride has been a resident of this city for a number of years and counts her friends by scores. As an artist she has attained high honors, having enjoyed a year's study abroad.

Prof. Lunt, who is also well known here as a progressive educator, has been engaged as Superintendent of the Ontario schools, which place will be his residence for the coming year. Congratulations, many and sincere, will follow them to their new home.

MONTGOMERY-ROSE.

A quiet wedding occurred yesterday noon at the elegant residence of Hon. and Mrs. L. J. Rose, on the occasion of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Daisy Rose to J. W. Montgomery, of the insurance firm of Childs, Hicks and Montgomery. The marriage was entirely private, only the immediate family of the bride and business associates of the groom witnessing the ceremony, which was performed by Very Rev. Father Adam. The Hamilton String Quartette discoursed sweet music and the residence was appropriately decorated for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery left on the afternoon train for San Francisco, where they will spend a few weeks visiting the principal places of interest thereabouts, returning to this city to reside. Among the wedding gifts was an elegant mahogany cabinet grand piano.

THE VIOLET AT SAN PEDRO.

Safe Arrival of the Little Sloop at That Port—Cause of the Delay.

During the last two days a great deal of uneasiness has been felt in the city of San Pedro about the prolonged absence of the sloop "Violet," which left Avalon, Catalina Island, for San Pedro Sunday, and with an ordinary passage should have put in an appearance at San Pedro Monday, at the latest, but Monday passed without any tidings from the Violet and Tuesday morning the sailboats started out to search for the vessel. The cargo consisted of Mrs. George H. Peck, Mrs. T. White, Miss Polhemus, Mrs. Seagrave, Fred Seagrave and Master Dickie Lindelow. Capt. Rosendale acted as captain and a large gathering of friends were on the beach to bid the party good-by and wish them a pleasant voyage. At 6 p.m. Tuesday the first news from the Violet came by telegram from the agent at San Juan Capistrano stating that the Violet had been there during the previous night and left again in the morning—too rough to get the ladies ashore, plenty of provisions and water aboard. Wednesday morning another dispatch was received, this time from Mrs. Peck and sent from Los Angeles stating that the Violet was drifting along the beach at San Juan, unable to land, and that there was neither water nor provisions aboard. This dispatch caused another sensation, and the steamer Falcon was chartered as soon as she arrived from Avalon to go after the Violet, but she had scarcely been away from the wharf when she learned that the Violet had been spoken about six miles west of the harbor, sailing along with a good breeze and everybody on board as happy as they could be. The party even refused to get aboard the Falcon, and stated that they needed no assistance whatever.

At 2 o'clock the Violet arrived at the wharf, and was met by a large party of friends who have been in a state of suspense and anxiety since Monday morning.

The entire party express themselves as being entirely satisfied with the trip except Mrs. Peck, who was landed by a fishing boat at Newport, and while they regret being the cause of any anxiety on the part of their numerous relatives and friends, they all seem to think that they never had a better time in their lives.

The cause of the long trip was fog and calm, a strong westerly current and swell taking the boat nearly forty miles out of her course.

The party are unanimous in their praises of Capt. Rosendale's gallant and heroic conduct in risking his life getting ashore at San Juan through the breakers to get food and water for the party.

Rev. S. H. Weller, D.D., in a few quiet words pronounced the wedding ceremony. As the beautiful words of the Mizpah fell from his lips in the closing prayer, the couple rose from their kneeling position, the organ burst into the glad strains of the wedding march. The bride passed slowly out in reversed order, the little flower girls leading the way and striding the aisle with pink and white rose petals.

THE carpenters have been slam graving away all day yesterday tearing out the shoe department, and in its place erecting the finest cloak room in the west. It will be a gorgeous affair. The shoe department is going out. The shoes are all on tables, and there is about double the quantity we thought we had. We have sold a big lot of shoes lately; the balance must go quickly. Every dollar's worth of shoes are being sold, and no more is to take their place. It is an opportunity you will not see again soon. The cool weather will soon take the place of the roasting we are now getting, and when it does come every nook and corner will have been thoroughly overhauled and we will be in elegant shape for a big fall trade. We are like the girl that had six beaux. She could take care of a few more if they came around her way. Our trade is showing a tremendous increase over one year ago, but we can take care of a few more. We have added a few more clerks. This week and next winds up the vacation, and then look out for a big pushing of trade in this house. It will come with a big rush. You can see we are getting favorable talk in every direction. Everybody has a good word to say for our new way to do business. There has been a tremendous increase all along the line. The Royal Worcester Corset has doubled sales in this department. One dollar buys an extra good corset; $1.25 and $1.50 you get excellent value, and at $2.00 we have the best corset you ever saw for the money. The dress goods department is again keeping up its big gain. Although the weather is warm, more than ordinary interest has been taken in our 55c line of all-wool crepon effects and all-wool Henriettas. We have a very large line of colors to select from. Over 200 pieces all-wool black dress goods; the $1.25 and $1.50 quality for a dollar a yard.
